

Social Workers

In Poudre School District, school social workers are dedicated to providing comprehensive, school-based mental health support in our Affective Needs Programs.

Their work focuses on direct student services, emotional regulation, crisis intervention, supporting access to learning, and connecting students and families with community resources. They partner with Affective Needs teachers, school psychologists and other staff to ensure an integrated, team-based approach.

Every student in the Affective Needs Program receives personalized support tailored to both their educational and emotional development. (See Affective Needs Programs).
